(Traverse City, MI) September 18, 2017 – The Michigan Association of Airport Executives has honored Cherry Capital Airport’s Kevin Klein with the Airport Manager of the Year Award. The award highlights Klein for his continued dedication to the industry, his tireless fight for legislation surrounding aeronautics in the state, his continued dedication to the industry, and his commitment to educational opportunities for airport personnel including internships, and professional education. The MAAE Executive Board also noted Klein’s selfless sacrifice for all airport personnel statewide well before his own.

Klein was immensely grateful; “I am very humbled to be honored with this distinguished award by my peers. My sincere thanks go to the Northwestern Regional Airport Commission for their ongoing support; it is an honor and a pleasure to be able to serve our northern Michigan community of Traverse City and our surrounding northern Michigan region.”

Under Klein’s leadership Cherry Capital Airport -TVC has experienced unprecedented and economic growth, while also seeing record increases in passengers flying in and out of the airport. Kevin’s stewardship has also been critical to securing a land lease program for the Costco store opening adjacent to the airport terminal soon. Klein also recognized two longtime mentors, Bob Peckham who served as lead engineer consult to TVC for many years in addition to longtime legal counsel Chuck Judson.

Cherry Capital Airport – TVC is home to air service provided by American Airlines, Delta Air Lines, and United Airlines. TVC is the connection to all of northern Michigan and services the entire world most often with just on stop. Visit TVCairport.com to learn more or download the TVC App in your App store for up-to-the-minute flight information and news.
